DCI Wins 2011 BankNews Innovative Solutions Award
- Top honors from a field of more than 40 competitors -

HUTCHINSON, KAN., October 26, 2011 – DCI, a developer of core banking software and technologies for community banks, is proud to announce that DCI has won the 2011 BankNews Innovative Solutions Award for Best Management Software Solution.

The Innovative Solutions Award is presented each year to a company that has helped community banks improve their ability to better serve their customers. This is the second time in four years that DCI has won the award.

The award honors the company that has introduced or significantly enhanced the most creative and effective product.

DCI was honored for its new flagship product, iCore360®, an authentic ASP .NET browser-based system for complete bank management, built around a single relational source of information and integration. iCore360° integrates the entire bank with fingertip business intelligence – including mastery of all customer relationships and real-time balances – from a single data source, making banks more efficient, competitive, and profitable.

Awards are based on voting by readers of BankNews. More than 40 companies competed for the award in four different categories: Architectural/Equipment Solutions, Consulting/Outsourcing/Training Solutions, Best Management Software Solution, and Online/Remote/Mobile Solutions.
